Dear M. Esmeraldo:

I have delayed answering your letter of April the 26th because we have been expecting to come to Paris, and have only been awaiting the consummation of some other situations so that I could determine the date.

It now appears that we will not be there until after the 1st of September. Accordingly, I would appreciate your advising me if the matter between us can wait until then. If not, I will be glad to either return the pieces or pay you for them, as you prefer. I would, of course, like to try to consummate a situation with you in September.

With kindest personal regards.
