Muy Señor mio,

According to our agreement in Paris I have today forwarded to your banker in Geneva the sum of French frcs. 2.420 covering our debt to you for the two art pieces I bought.

As you remember, you were kind enough to give me a receipt for N.kr. 2.800. -. In some way inexplicable to me this receipt has gone astray and I can't find it neither at home nor in my office. Will you therefore be so kind as to give me a receipt of French frcs. 1.800. -, which I need for my accounts. I trust you will do so as soon as you have your banker's confirmation that the amount of frcs. 2.420. - has been added to your account in Geneva.

May I take the opportunity to thank your charming wife and yourself for the pleasant afternoon we spent at your home and for the friendliness and good friendship you offered us. We do indeed hope that we will have another chance to meet you, either when we are coming to Paris next time, or that you maybe would come to Norway for a brief week of skiing, as we have now received 1,5 meters of clean, white, beautiful, brilliant snow.

Looking forward to meeting you next time, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
