

A photograph of a modern interior space, likely a lecture hall or a contemporary art installation. The foreground is dominated by a curved wooden bench with a light-colored wood grain. Above the bench is a large, semi-circular glass skylight that reflects the surrounding environment. The floor is made of large, light-colored square tiles. In the background, several rows of white, upholstered chairs with wooden legs are arranged in a semi-circle, facing towards the center of the room. The overall atmosphere is clean, bright, and minimalist.
