Dear M. Esmeraldo:

Upon my return from Mexico I found your letter of November the 29th, and this is therefore the first opportunity I have had to answer.

It appears to me that you have evidently revised your original thinking concerning the prices and payments for the publishing of your editions. You will recall that you left with me a copy of a suggested contract written in French, and upon my return from Paris I translated this - with some corrections and additions - into English and forwarded it on to you. What has created the change in the figures? If our costs are too high we diminish our selling possibilities, and this is not good for either of us.

I would appreciate hearing from you by return mail, and in the meantime, take this opportunity to extend to you and to Ann our very best wishes that you have a Healthy and Happy New Year - with Peace.

Very truly yours,

THE EYE CORPORATION
