instituto de arte contemporânea

A photograph of a modern architectural structure, likely a museum or contemporary art institute. The building features a curved, light-colored facade with a recessed panel system. Large windows are visible at ground level, looking out onto a bright sky and some greenery. The overall design is minimalist and organic in form.

A photograph of a modern building's curved facade. The facade is a light grey or white color with a smooth, rounded edge. A large, slanted text overlay is superimposed on the image, reading "instituto de arte contemporânea". The text is in a dark, serif font and is oriented diagonally from the top left towards the bottom right. There are two small, vertical rectangular labels on the building's surface, one on each side of the main text area, which appear to contain the letters "IAC" and "MAM".
